Cat Cleaning

Help for Cat Cleaning

Cats are fairly clean creatures that are rather particular about their daily grooming habits. However, even the most diligent groomers can become especially dirty, oily or matted and may need a little extra cleaning help. Some breeds, particularly long haired breeds require regular brushing, bathing and face washing to keep them looking and feeling clean and fresh.

Cat bathing is not always easy and so it's something you should get your cat used to from a young age. Follow the below steps to make cleaning your cat quick, simple and painless as possible for the both of you:

Step 1: Prepare the bathing area. Fill the basin or laundry tub with warm water that is comfortable for your cat and place a bath mat or towel at the bottom of this so that your cat doesn't slip. Make sure you have a suitable cat shampoo at hand, as well as two dry towels for afterwards.

Step 2: Prepare your cat. Start the process by trimming the tips of your cat's claws. This is an important aspect of cat grooming and it will reduce the chances of scratches during bath-time. Next, brush your cat as any knots present will be more difficult to remove once the hair is wet. Once the grooming is done, place cotton balls in your cat's ears so that water can't enter, and if possible apply an ophthalmic ointment to protect your cat's eyes from the shampoo.

Step 3: Place your cat in the water and wet the fur thoroughly. Massage the shampoo into the fur making sure it goes right to the roots of the hair. Be careful when washing your cat's face or head and never pour water over the head. Rather clean these areas using a face cloth and a little bit of shampoo (being careful around the eyes). Rinse the cat well, making sure you pay attention to the groin area and armpits.

Step 4: Squeeze as much of the excess water off the cat before wrapping him in a dry towel. Rub the fur dry as much as possible and when the towel becomes saturated, use the second dry towel. Continue to rub the fur against the grain from tail to head until the cat is mostly dry. This will prevent foul smelling fur. Most cats will groom themselves and dry naturally from here on, but make sure they're in a draft free area. It also helps to brush the cat as the fur dries to help remove knots and tangles.

Step 5: Your cat is now clean, but more than likely unimpressed. Consider a peace-offering or tasty treat as a reward so that bath times can be associated with a pleasant ending.

When bathing your cat it is important to use a cat shampoo that is natural and free of harsh chemicals and artificial perfumes. There are various herbal ingredients that can help making your cat's bath a pleasant and healthy experience. One beneficial cleaning herb is catnip.

This herb is often a firm favorite with cats and its sedative and calmativ effects help to reduce the anxiety of bath times. In addition, catnip has excellent insect repellent properties and has been known to kill certain insect larvae. Chamomile is another beneficial bath-time herb which has strong calming properties and works well to promote healthy skin.

Cleavers is also excellent cleansing herb which also helps to reduce dandruff or scaly skin and promote healthy skin and coat. Lastly, nettle can be used to encourage healthy skin and hair and its soothing properties make it excellent for soothing insect bites or skin irritations.

Tips for cleaning cats

- Never use human shampoo to get rid of cat smells even if their fur has become smelly as it can cause skin irritation and damage your cat's fur and coat. Human shampoos contain harsh detergents and are not the correct pH level for cats. Rather opt for a natural shampoo formulated specifically for cats.
- Start bathing your cat from very young so that they get used to the process and becomes comfortable with water. Most kittens have a strong instinctive aversion to water so you may need to persevere a few times before they become accustomed to the feeling.
- Experiment with cat bathing techniques if the conventional methods cause your pet too much stress. Some cats prefer to be in an empty basin and have the water poured over them rather than being placed in a basin already filled with water for washing.
- Remember to talking soothingly to your cat during bath-times to reduce their anxiety and keep in mind that they will pick up on your anxiety so remain calm and soothing.
- When clipping your cat's claws, only clip off the tip and don't go near the quick (the pink area of the nail).
- Brush your cat's fur regularly as this will help remove excess hair, help remove dirt and old skin cells and help distribute natural oils through your cats coat leaving in shiny and healthy.

The Natural Approach

While Western medicine has become the norm in many cultures, it is not the only treatment option. Conventional western medicine, often called allopathic medicine, is the system of medicine taught at most medical schools and most pharmaceutical and synthetic medicines are manufactured and marketed according to the principles of allopathic medicine. Allopathic medicine is also sometimes called orthodox medicine.

Because most of us in the Western world have grown up in a society in which allopathic medicine is the prevailing norm, we forget that, only a few decades ago, homeopathic, herbal and other natural medicines were commonly available – and freely used even by conventional doctors and veterinarians. While there are often heated debates about which system of medicine is 'better' than the other, many responsible doctors and vets (whether they are allopathic or not) recognize that both have a role to play in the treatment program.

Just like humans, domesticated animals like dogs and cats are affected by the health hazards of modern living. Pollution, poor nutrition, stress and unhealthy lifestyles can lead to a variety of illnesses and conditions that are very similar to those experienced by humans. In fact, many, if not most pet health concerns can be addressed by helping your pets to live a healthier lifestyle. While it has its place, conventional medicine for animals and 'modern technology' have failed our pets in many ways.

According to pet expert and author CJ Puotinen, most holistic veterinarians and animal health care professions list annual vaccinations and commercial pet foods as the major contributory cause in the rising rates of chronic illness in pets today. Similarly, Juliette de Bairacli Levy, respected author and renowned animal breeder, points out that contrary to the belief that mass vaccination and antibiotic use will contribute to a decrease in disease, the opposite has in fact proved true. Like their human counterparts, today's pets are becoming more and more vulnerable to chronic disease and ill health. This has led many veterinarians to search for alternatives and to espouse more holistic methods of keeping our pets healthy.

"In the wild, animals instinctively seek out healing herbs to help them when they are ill or undernourished. In fact, Asclepius, the ancient Greek god of medicine, respected dogs very highly for their ability to seek out and eat medicinal herbs in the wild. This ability is shared by other animals, including cats. We are coming to realize that nature often has the answers - but animals have always known this! Natural medicine can help your pet just as it can help you. While there is always a place for conventional veterinary medicine, natural medicine can compliment conventional veterinary care and in many cases do just as well. I have applied the same care and research that have gone into our Native Remedies range for adults and children to the development of pet-friendly, safe and effective natural remedies for animals. As always, all remedies are formulated to the highest therapeutic standards and manufactured under strict pharmaceutical conditions for your peace of mind and the well being of your pets. " Michele Carelse, Clinical Psychologist.

"When a veterinary surgeon practices the use of homeopathic medicine and is asked why he does so, he may give one of several answers. The simple answer would be that the results are good, an emphatic answer would be that homeopathic treatment has no unpleasant or dangerous side effects, while still achieving successful results.

The PetAlive Homeopathic range has been formulated with this knowledge and is specifically designed to treat your pet in a holistic and natural manner."

Common Questions Asked About Holistic Health Distance Learning Courses:

What is Certification?

Most schools will offer an exam that tests the student's knowledge of the material taught in the respective course. Upon successful completion of this exam, a Certificate or Diploma will be issued by the school attesting that the student has successfully met the requirements as specified by that school. The only governmental recognition of Aromatherapy in North America is the occupational title designation granted to the BCAA under the Societies Act of British Columbia.

What is a Certified Aromatherapist or Reflexologist?

Most prospective students want to know whether taking our courses will lead to their becoming 'Certified' in that healing modality, thereby leading to the title of Certified Aromatherapist, Certified Reflexologist or Certified Color/Crystal Therapist. The answer to this really depends on what you mean by 'Certified.' We believe it can be misleading to purport that completing a course in a healing modality such as reflexology, aromatherapy or color/crystal therapy will lead to a designation of 'Certified' Therapist. These are not official title designations nor are they ones which are recognized by any country's governmental body. All that these titles mean is that this is what an Individual Instructor, School or Institution decided to put on the Diploma it awards those who successfully complete their course.

What is an accredited course in Aromatherapy or Reflexology?

The answer to this will depend on who you are asking. At the present time, British Columbia is the only government to recognize Aromatherapy as a distinct profession and has granted Occupational Title Protection to the members of the BCAA (British Columbia Alliance of Aromatherapy) with the exclusive right for its members to call themselves Registered Aromatherapists (R.A.).

At this time, neither Reflexology nor Color/Crystal Therapy have such occupational designations in any country although one prominent Reflexology school in Colorado, The Modern Institute of Reflexology, has gained occupational designation for their institution in that state. MIR has been designated by the Colorado State Division of Private Occupational Schools - Dept. of Higher Education as an approved school. Our Reflexologist who developed the reflexology modules for our courses was trained at MIR as a Certified Reflexologist, a Master Reflexologist and a Dr. of Reflexology.

In the United States, the NAHA (National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy) has put into place their Approved Standards for Aromatherapy Training. The Alternative Healing Academy's Advanced Aromatherapy course meets and exceeds these standards and we are in the application process of becoming an approved program through the NAHA.

In Canada, there are a number of different Associations including the BCAPA (British Columbia Association of Practicing Aromatherapists) and the CFA (Canadian Federation of Aromatherapists). Time will tell if one authoritative body or association becomes the standard by which to judge and govern the educational offerings of these alternative healing modalities.

It has to be noted that NO form of aromatherapy "certification" is currently recognized in the USA by anyone other than those in the trade, nor is aromatherapy (or essential oils in the aromatherapy trade) regulated by any governmental body.

Most of all thank you for this new way of living and enjoying Life."

"I am finding the course great. It is written very well so even people like me can understand the human body a whole lot better. I just hope that I can remember it all. I don't think I have a chance of remembering the names of everything in the muscular system or the movement system. But, I do have more of an understanding of how everything works now. I find it just amazing. Thanks Heaps."

I researched various courses on the internet and decided to go with the basic course through the Alternative Healing Academy. I was impressed with course material and the ease of receiving the course material."

"I was given an choice of having a CD sent to me or to receiving and sending back the assignments through email. I choose email. I received 3 lessons at a time that I could read and study on my own time frame and return the lessons when I was done. Everything was sent in a very timely manner and communication was open and quick. If I needed help, I knew it was only a click away and the response time was very quick. The techniques used also came in a video mode in the email that I could replay as much as I needed to."

"I felt I learned a lot and am able to help myself and others. Being able to log 20 hours of treatment time and writing the case histories for the final exam was extremely rewarding and helpful.
