Pet Allergies

What are Allergies?

Dog allergies and cat allergies are just as common as humans are. An allergy occurs when your pet's immune system reacts to a particular irritant that it has been exposed to. You will notice that your pet is itching and scratching excessively and hair loss may occur on one particular spot of the body or there may be patches all over the body.

There are various types of skin allergies and these include:

- Cat and dog food allergies are caused by certain food sources or ingredients such as commercial pet foods that may bring about an allergic reaction in pets.
- Atopic allergies are caused by something that your pet inhales such as tree, grass and weed pollens, mold, mildew, smoke, dust or dander.
- Contact allergies are caused when your pet comes into contact with a particular substance such as flea collars, fabrics, plastic, insecticides, pesticides or rubber)
- Parasite allergies are caused by fleas, heartworm, bee sting anaphylaxis

What Causes Allergies?

An allergic reaction occurs when the immune system tries to protect the body by sending out histamines to attack the substance. Allergies may be caused by something your pet ingests, has come into contact with or inhaled.

They are very frustrating and distressing for your pet as the only way that he knows to soothe himself is by scratching, biting or chewing the affected area. If left untreated, this excessive scratching can lead serious inflammation and infection, even spreading to other areas of the skin. Although allergies cannot be cured, they can be managed and controlled.

Diagnosing Allergies

The diagnosis of an allergy is based on the symptoms presented, thorough physical examination as a review of the pet's medical history. To rule out the various types of allergies, your vet will want to know if your pet is on a flea control program. Certain tests such as skin reaction and intradermal allergy tests and blood tests may also be performed.

If a food allergy is suspected, the pet is put on an elimination diet which consists of protein and carbohydrates for ten weeks and then slowly add ingredients from the old diet to check if itchiness increases. During this period, treats, table scraps, rawhide toys as well as medications should not be given to the pet.

Help for Allergies

Treatment typically depends on the type of allergy that your pet has developed. Some pets may have to be treated for more than one allergy while for others, a simple change in diet or mineral supplement may be required.

Allergies may be treated with a wide variety of topical solutions such as hypoallergenic, hydrocortisone or oatmeal shampoos, anti-itch creams, lotions or cooling salves. Mineral supplements such as omega-3 fatty acid and biotin as well as antihistamines and corticosteroids can also provide symptomatic relief.

Corticosteroids should only be used as a last option as they have severe side effects such as increased thirst, panting, and frequent urinating and when used excessively can lead to diabetes or Cushing's disease. our vet may also recommend an immunotherapy program that consists of a series of shots in cases where allergies are severe.

If you know what is causing your pet's allergy, avoidance is very important. Home care maintenance such as bathing your pet in an oatmeal bath or Epsom salts, using a flea repellent for fleas and avoiding exposure to irritants until the allergic reaction subsides can make a significant difference.

Natural Remedies

Natural and holistic treatments are a gentler alternative to conventional medications and safe for both humans and pets to use. Homeopathic remedies provide symptomatic relief without any unwanted side effects.

A combination of carefully selected ingredients such as Arum triph, Viola tri, Comocladia, Chamomilla and Cina promote skin health and helps to alleviate symptoms such as itchiness, scratching, redness and burning of the skin.

Tips to relieve allergies

There are a number of things that you can do to avoid creating allergic reactions in your pet and these include:

- Feed your pet an all natural diet without preservatives, additives or colorants
- Avoid making sudden changes to your pet's diet. Gradually introduce new foods and then monitor what effect they have on your pet
- Avoid feeding your pet table scraps, sugary or salty foods
- Use stainless steel or ceramic food and water bowls instead of plastic – plastic may cause an allergic reaction
- Always provide fresh, clean water to cleanse the body's system and avoid dehydration
- Avoid exposing your pet to irritants such as pollen, smoke, household detergents, fertilizer or pesticides
- Keep your pet's living clean by disinfecting regularly
- Clean your home thoroughly by vacuuming carpets and dusting furniture to ease both you and your pet's respiratory allergies
- Detox your pet regularly to get rid of unwanted toxins
- Visit your vet regularly for routine check ups

The Natural Approach

While Western medicine has become the norm in many cultures, it is not the only treatment option. Conventional western medicine, often called allopathic medicine, is the system of medicine taught at most medical schools and most pharmaceutical and synthetic medicines are manufactured and marketed according to the principles of allopathic medicine. Allopathic medicine is also sometimes called orthodox medicine.

Because most of us in the Western world have grown up in a society in which allopathic medicine is the prevailing norm, we forget that, only a few decades ago, homeopathic, herbal and other natural medicines were commonly available – and freely used even by conventional doctors and veterinarians. While there are often heated debates about which system of medicine is 'better' than the other, many responsible doctors and vets (whether they are allopathic or not) recognize that both have a role to play in the treatment program.

Just like humans, domesticated animals like dogs and cats are affected by the health hazards of modern living. Pollution, poor nutrition, stress and unhealthy lifestyles can lead to a variety of illnesses and conditions that are very similar to those experienced by humans. In fact, many, if not most pet health concerns can be addressed by helping your pets to live a healthier lifestyle. While it has its place, conventional medicine for animals and 'modern technology' have failed our pets in many ways.

According to pet expert and author CJ Puotinen, most holistic veterinarians and animal health care professions list annual vaccinations and commercial pet foods as the major contributory cause in the rising rates of chronic illness in pets today. Similarly, Juliette de Bairacli Levy, respected author and renowned animal breeder, points out that contrary to the belief that mass vaccination and antibiotic use will contribute to a decrease in disease, the opposite has in fact proved true. Like their human counterparts, today's pets are becoming more and more vulnerable to chronic disease and ill health. This has led many veterinarians to search for alternatives and to espouse more holistic methods of keeping our pets healthy.

"In the wild, animals instinctively seek out healing herbs to help them when they are ill or undernourished. In fact, Asclepius, the ancient Greek god of medicine, respected dogs very highly for their ability to seek out and eat medicinal herbs in the wild. This ability is shared by other animals, including cats. We are coming to realize that nature often has the answers - but animals have always known this! Natural medicine can help your pet just as it can help you. While there is always a place for conventional veterinary medicine, natural medicine can compliment conventional veterinary care and in many cases do just as well. I have applied the same care and research that have gone into our Native Remedies range for adults and children to the development of pet-friendly, safe and effective natural remedies for animals. As always, all remedies are formulated to the highest therapeutic standards and manufactured under strict pharmaceutical conditions for your peace of mind and the well being of your pets. " Michele Carelse, Clinical Psychologist.

"When a veterinary surgeon practices the use of homeopathic medicine and is asked why he does so, he may give one of several answers. The simple answer would be that the results are good, an emphatic answer would be that homeopathic treatment has no unpleasant or dangerous side effects, while still achieving successful results.

The PetAlive Homeopathic range has been formulated with this knowledge and is specifically designed to treat your pet in a holistic and natural manner."

Common Questions Asked About Holistic Health Distance Learning Courses:

What is Certification?

Most schools will offer an exam that tests the student's knowledge of the material taught in the respective course. Upon successful completion of this exam, a Certificate or Diploma will be issued by the school attesting that the student has successfully met the requirements as specified by that school. The only governmental recognition of Aromatherapy in North America is the occupational title designation granted to the BCAA under the Societies Act of British Columbia.

What is a Certified Aromatherapist or Reflexologist?

Most prospective students want to know whether taking our courses will lead to their becoming 'Certified' in that healing modality, thereby leading to the title of Certified Aromatherapist, Certified Reflexologist or Certified Color/Crystal Therapist. The answer to this really depends on what you mean by 'Certified.' We believe it can be misleading to purport that completing a course in a healing modality such as reflexology, aromatherapy or color/crystal therapy will lead to a designation of 'Certified' Therapist. These are not official title designations nor are they ones which are recognized by any country's governmental body. All that these titles mean is that this is what an Individual Instructor, School or Institution decided to put on the Diploma it awards those who successfully complete their course.

What is an accredited course in Aromatherapy or Reflexology?

The answer to this will depend on who you are asking. At the present time, British Columbia is the only government to recognize Aromatherapy as a distinct profession and has granted Occupational Title Protection to the members of the BCAA (British Columbia Alliance of Aromatherapy) with the exclusive right for its members to call themselves Registered Aromatherapists (R.A.).

At this time, neither Reflexology nor Color/Crystal Therapy have such occupational designations in any country although one prominent Reflexology school in Colorado, The Modern Institute of Reflexology, has gained occupational designation for their institution in that state. MIR has been designated by the Colorado State Division of Private Occupational Schools - Dept. of Higher Education as an approved school. Our Reflexologist who developed the reflexology modules for our courses was trained at MIR as a Certified Reflexologist, a Master Reflexologist and a Dr. of Reflexology.

In the United States, the NAHA (National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy) has put into place their Approved Standards for Aromatherapy Training. The Alternative Healing Academy's Advanced Aromatherapy course meets and exceeds these standards and we are in the application process of becoming an approved program through the NAHA.

In Canada, there are a number of different Associations including the BCAPA (British Columbia Association of Practicing Aromatherapists) and the CFA (Canadian Federation of Aromatherapists). Time will tell if one authoritative body or association becomes the standard by which to judge and govern the educational offerings of these alternative healing modalities.

It has to be noted that NO form of aromatherapy "certification" is currently recognized in the USA by anyone other than those in the trade, nor is aromatherapy (or essential oils in the aromatherapy trade) regulated by any governmental body.

Some information about the courses we offer:

You will be contacted after purchase to find out how you would like your course delivered. All tests for the course can be either emailed or snail-mailed to The Alternative Healing Academy.

"I'm done! Going through the final and the case studies and having such amazing experiences and opportunities to help people, I truly feel blessed and honored to have had the intense education that came with this course. I am continuing to train personally with Alexandria Brighton and have begun work toward opening an aromatherapy practice. Thank you so much for your patience and knowledge. Most of all thank you for this new way of living and enjoying Life."

"I am finding the course great. It is written very well so even people like me can understand the human body a whole lot better. I just hope that I can remember it all. I don't think I have a chance of remembering the names of everything in the muscular system or the movement system. But, I do have more of an understanding of how everything works now. I find it just amazing. Thanks Heaps."

"Seven years ago I started to see a reflexologist for migraines and sinus problems. I was amazed that I finally found relief without medication. I decided this year to search out a course in reflexology so I could help family and friends and show them the benefits of reflexology. I researched various courses on the internet and decided to go with the basic course through the Alternative Healing Academy. I was impressed with course material and the ease of receiving the course material."

"I was given an choice of having a CD sent to me or to receiving and sending back the assignments through email. I choose email. I received 3 lessons at a time that I could read and study on my own time frame and return the lessons when I was done. Everything was sent in a very timely manner and communication was open and quick. If I needed help, I knew it was only a click away and the response time was very quick. The techniques used also came in a video mode in the email that I could replay as much as I needed to."

"I felt I learned a lot and am able to help myself and others. Being able to log 20 hours of treatment time and writing the case histories for the final exam was extremely rewarding and helpful.
