Pet Weight Loss

Helping your Pet Lose Weight

Having a pet with a few extra pounds to spare may not seem like a serious problem, however, more and more pets are becoming over-weight and pet obesity is becoming a steadily increasing concern. Being over-weight makes your pet vulnerable to a number of health risks including diabetes, arthritis, and heart disease as well as decreased immune functioning.

Extra strain is placed on your pet's internal organs, as well as on joints and bones, making simple activities more strenuous. Over-weight pets also tend to have a poorer quality of life as they aren't able to be as active, often get excessively hot, and may even be uncomfortable a lot of the time.

In most cases, weight gain is so gradual that you may not even notice it until one day you realize, or someone comments that your pet is actually over-weight. What ever the case, it is never too late to make healthy and positive changes now that will affect your pet later, and possibly add year to his or her life!

What Causes Pets to Become Overweight?

There are a number of factors that contribute to our pets gaining weight. The main culprit is an unbalanced exercise-diet ratio meaning your pet is eating more calories than what he or she is using in physical activity. Other factors include:

1. Diet – many store-bought pet foods are inappropriate for your pet's digestive system and are too high in carbohydrates and fats. In addition to this, many pet owners constantly give into puppy dog eyes and pleading meows at the dinner table and so pets are being given tid bits and treats which are high in calories!
2. Activity levels – Some pets are more active than others, and so they require a higher caloric intake than sedentary pets. If your pet is getting very little exercise then they do not need as much food as an active pet. Use activity levels as a rough gauge for meal portions.
3. Eating patterns – Many pet owners opt for free-choice feeding, meaning they set a bowl of food out which is always full for when their pet is hungry. While some pets manage fine on this eating option, and only eat when they are hungry, some pets over-eat and don't know when to stop. Free-choice feeding also allows for eating out of boredom. Over-weight pets should rather be fed smaller meals at regular intervals throughout the day.
4. Illnesses – Certain illnesses and medical conditions can cause weight gain. These include pituitary gland and brain diseases, Cushing's disease, Hypothyroidism and tumors of the pancreas (insulinoma).
5. Age – When our pets are young they tend to be more active and use much of their energy for growth. From the age of 2, many pets will start to gain weight if their diets aren't adapted accordingly. Peak weight gain age is at round about 6 years old.

6. Medication – Certain medications can cause changes in metabolism and appetite. Some of these include glucocorticoids such as prednisone and dexamethasone and barbiturates such as phenobarbital which is frequently used to control epilepsy.
7. Genetic factors – Studies have revealed that weight gain can be genetic and certain breeds seem to be more predisposed to weight gain than others. High risk dog breeds include Labrador Retrievers, Beagles, Dalmatians, Basset Hounds, Shetland Sheepdogs, and Miniature Poodles to name a few. Mixed breed cats tend to be at higher risk than pure bred cats.
8. Sterilization – Spaying or neutering your pet can cause hormonal changes and changes in activity levels which can cause weight gain. Sterilized pets generally need about 20% less food than non-sterilized pets. The problem therefore, is not so much with the procedure, as with the changes of dietary needs after it.
9. Social environment – Some pets over-eat because they are bored, lonely, stressed or feel that there is competition for available food amongst other pets. These problems should be tackled directly so that your pet no longer feels the need to over-eat.

Natural Remedies

Helping your pet lose that extra weight is no easy task, but luckily nature has a few natural ingredients to assist with the process. The mineral rich sea vegetable, Fucus vesiculosus will help increase your pet's metabolism by assisting in the production of thyroid hormones.

Other beneficial weight-loss ingredients include Curcuma longa which helps with the break-down of dietary fats, and Milk Thistle which is renowned for its beneficial effects of the liver, the organ responsible for metabolizing fats in the body.

How to help your pet lose weight

- If your pet has a weight problem the first step is a veterinary consult where your vet can check for any underlying conditions that may be causing weight gain and see if the weight gain has caused any health concerns. Your vet may also enquire about your pet's diet and suggest a dietary change.
- Your pet's diet and feeding program then needs to be reassessed. If you decide not to change your pet's food, then you may need to look at reducing portion sizes to better suit your pet's caloric intake. Try reducing your pet's food by 30% over a period of three weeks. The key is gradual weight loss so make sure you reduce portions slowly. You can help control your pet's appetite by feeding smaller portions multiple times throughout the day.
- If you decide to change your pet's food then opt for something low in carbohydrates and low in fats. Your pet may be fussy at first and turn his or her nose up at this new food, but remember to persevere and they will get used to the change. It often helps to make the change over a period of about 4 days, mixing the two foods together and gradually reducing the old food.
- Once your pet's diet has been changed, it is important to eliminate or seriously cut down on treats and table scraps. Make sure that everyone in the household is aware of the situation and get everyone to co-operate together to help your pet.

- The next step after managing the diet is encouraging exercise! Some pets are naturally more active than others, but most pets can be enticed into doing some form of daily exercise. Taking dogs for daily walks is essential and if your dog likes playing fetch, then regular trips to the park with a ball will help your pet lose some of those extra pounds. While daily walks for cats are usually not an option, most cats can't resist a game of mouse-on-a-string. Ping-pong balls and catnip filled toys are also a firm favorite!
- Lastly, your pet may be in the habit of receiving food and treats as a reward or a gesture of affection. Break this habit and make sure you substitute these food treats for lots of attention, affection, verbal praise and toys!

The Natural Approach

While Western medicine has become the norm in many cultures, it is not the only treatment option. Conventional western medicine, often called allopathic medicine, is the system of medicine taught at most medical schools and most pharmaceutical and synthetic medicines are manufactured and marketed according to the principles of allopathic medicine. Allopathic medicine is also sometimes called orthodox medicine.

Because most of us in the Western world have grown up in a society in which allopathic medicine is the prevailing norm, we forget that, only a few decades ago, homeopathic, herbal and other natural medicines were commonly available – and freely used even by conventional doctors and veterinarians. While there are often heated debates about which system of medicine is 'better' than the other, many responsible doctors and vets (whether they are allopathic or not) recognize that both have a role to play in the treatment program.

Just like humans, domesticated animals like dogs and cats are affected by the health hazards of modern living. Pollution, poor nutrition, stress and unhealthy lifestyles can lead to a variety of illnesses and conditions that are very similar to those experienced by humans. In fact, many, if not most pet health concerns can be addressed by helping your pets to live a healthier lifestyle. While it has its place, conventional medicine for animals and 'modern technology' have failed our pets in many ways.

According to pet expert and author CJ Puotinen, most holistic veterinarians and animal health care professions list annual vaccinations and commercial pet foods as the major contributory cause in the rising rates of chronic illness in pets today. Similarly, Juliette de Bairacli Levy, respected author and renowned animal breeder, points out that contrary to the belief that mass vaccination and antibiotic use will contribute to a decrease in disease, the opposite has in fact proved true. Like their human counterparts, today's pets are becoming more and more vulnerable to chronic disease and ill health. This has led many veterinarians to search for alternatives and to espouse more holistic methods of keeping our pets healthy.

"In the wild, animals instinctively seek out healing herbs to help them when they are ill or undernourished. In fact, Asclepius, the ancient Greek god of medicine, respected dogs very highly for their ability to seek out and eat medicinal herbs in the wild. This ability is shared by other animals, including cats. We are coming to realize that nature often has the answers - but animals have always known this! Natural medicine can help your pet just as it can help you. While there is always a place for conventional veterinary medicine, natural medicine can compliment conventional veterinary care and in many cases do just as well. " Michele Carelse, Clinical Psychologist.

"When a veterinary surgeon practices the use of homeopathic medicine and is asked why he does so, he may give one of several answers. The simple answer would be that the results are good, an emphatic answer would be that homeopathic treatment has no unpleasant or dangerous side effects, while still achieving successful results.

With the increasing popularity of aromatherapy, reflexology, color & crystal therapy and a return to a more holistic lifestyle, people have begun searching for ways to earn more money; expand their skills; improve the health of themselves, friends & family; and increase their knowledge of alternative medicine.

The Alternative Healing Academy has developed several new courses in the holistic health care field for those who would like the opportunity to learn a healing modality at their own pace and in their own homes.

A Doctor of Reflexology with The Alternative Healing Academy is teaching classes with curriculum very similar to the Reflexology Practitioner Course and the Basic Aromatherapy at her local community college.

Our holistic health courses were developed by professionals in the Holistic Health Care field trained in the following modalities: Aromatherapy, Advanced/Master Aromatherapy, Reiki, Tuning Fork Therapy, Color and Crystal Therapy, Homeopathy, Herbalism, and Advanced Reflexology.

Furthermore, since we at the Alternative Healing Academy also realize that not everyone wants to make alternative medicine a career choice, we also offer basic courses as well as several Mini Courses which will teach you the skills you need to help improve the health and quality of life for yourself, your family and your friends.

Common Questions Asked About Holistic Health Distance Learning Courses:

What is Certification?

Most schools will offer an exam that tests the student's knowledge of the material taught in the respective course. Upon successful completion of this exam, a Certificate or Diploma will be issued by the school attesting that the student has successfully met the requirements as specified by that school. The only governmental recognition of Aromatherapy in North America is the occupational title designation granted to the BCAA under the Societies Act of British Columbia.

What is a Certified Aromatherapist or Reflexologist?

Most prospective students want to know whether taking our courses will lead to their becoming 'Certified' in that healing modality, thereby leading to the title of Certified Aromatherapist, Certified Reflexologist or Certified Color/Crystal Therapist. The answer to this really depends on what you mean by 'Certified.' We believe it can be misleading to purport that completing a course in a healing modality such as reflexology, aromatherapy or color/crystal therapy will lead to a designation of 'Certified' Therapist. These are not official title designations nor are they ones which are recognized by any country's governmental body. All that these titles mean is that this is what an Individual Instructor, School or Institution decided to put on the Diploma it awards those who successfully complete their course.

What is an accredited course in Aromatherapy or Reflexology?

The answer to this will depend on who you are asking. At the present time, British Columbia is the only government to recognize Aromatherapy as a distinct profession and has granted Occupational Title Protection to the members of the BCAA (British Columbia Alliance of Aromatherapy) with the exclusive right for its members to call themselves Registered Aromatherapists (R.A.).

At this time, neither Reflexology nor Color/Crystal Therapy have such occupational designations in any country although one prominent Reflexology school in Colorado, The Modern Institute of Reflexology, has gained occupational designation for their institution in that state. MIR has been designated by the Colorado State Division of Private Occupational Schools - Dept. of Higher Education as an approved school. Our Reflexologist who developed the reflexology modules for our courses was trained at MIR as a Certified Reflexologist, a Master Reflexologist and a Dr. of Reflexology.

In the United States, the NAHA (National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy) has put into place their Approved Standards for Aromatherapy Training. The Alternative Healing Academy's Advanced Aromatherapy course meets and exceeds these standards and we are in the application process of becoming an approved program through the NAHA.

In Canada, there are a number of different Associations including the BCAPA (British Columbia Association of Practicing Aromatherapists) and the CFA (Canadian Federation of Aromatherapists). Time will tell if one authoritative body or association becomes the standard by which to judge and govern the educational offerings of these alternative healing modalities.

It has to be noted that NO form of aromatherapy "certification" is currently recognized in the USA by anyone other than those in the trade, nor is aromatherapy (or essential oils in the aromatherapy trade) regulated by any governmental body.

Some information about the courses we offer:

1) You can receive the course in one of two ways: A cd with the modules and tests in PDF format can be shipped to you; or, The modules can be emailed to you three at a time. Each time you complete the tests for the current three modules, a new set of three modules will be emailed to you.

2) All modules are clearly explained, are in pdf format and fully illustrated.

3) The Advanced Aromatherapy Practitioner and the Advanced Reflexology Practitioner courses are designed to meet the National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy (NAHA) guidelines.

4) A tutor will be available via email to answer any questions you may have.

You will be contacted after purchase to find out how you would like your course delivered. All tests for the course can be either emailed or snail-mailed to The Alternative Healing Academy.

Upon successful completion of any full diploma or certification course (with a score of 80% or higher), you will receive a beautiful Diploma, suitable for framing.

Course Testimonials

"I'm done! Going through the final and the case studies and having such amazing experiences and opportunities to help people, I truly feel blessed and honored to have had the intense education that came with this course. I discovered in me a new ability to serve others, not only through education but through the power of healing that comes with the use of essential oils. I am continuing to train personally with Alexandria Brighton and have begun work toward opening an aromatherapy practice. Thank you so much for your patience and knowledge. Most of all thank you for this new way of living and enjoying Life."

-A. Lindquist - Advanced Aromatherapy Practitioner

"I am finding the course great. It is written very well so even people like me can understand the human body a whole lot better. I just hope that I can remember it all. I don't think I have a chance of remembering the names of everything in the muscular system or the movement system. But, I do have more of an understanding of how everything works now. I find it just amazing. Thanks Heaps."

-M. Oliver - Basic Anatomy & Physiology

"This information is great that you are teaching. I would really like to talk my oldest daughter into taking your course. It really goes into detail which is very informative."

-Debbie F. - Basic Reflexology

"Seven years ago I started to see a reflexologist for migraines and sinus problems. I was amazed that I finally found relief without medication. I decided this year to search out a course in reflexology so I could help family and friends and show them the benefits of reflexology. I researched various courses on the internet and decided to go with the basic course through the Alternative Healing Academy. I was impressed with course material and the ease of receiving the course material."

"I was given an choice of having a CD sent to me or to receiving and sending back the assignments through email. I choose email. I received 3 lessons at a time that I could read and study on my own time frame and return the lessons when I was done. Everything was sent in a very timely manner and communication was open and quick. If I needed help, I knew it was only a click away and the response time was very quick. The techniques used also came in a video mode in the email that I could replay as much as I needed to."

"I felt I learned a lot and am able to help myself and others. Being able to log 20 hours of treatment time and writing the case histories for the final exam was extremely rewarding and helpful. I would recommend this course to others interested in reflexology because the course material was very informative and complete and written in easy to understand language."

-Jean Russell - Basic Reflexology Course

"I'm so excited about (the Advanced Aromatherapy course) and I'm particularly excited about the possibility of making custom blends for people! I hadn't anticipated having that opportunity when I took the course so I'm excited to have everything done! I'm very excited to have finished. I really enjoyed this course and really appreciate all the work you've put into it! This has been a fabulous jumping off point for me and I'm so glad I took it."

"p.s. I know the boys are much slower at the Reflexology, but my son is loving the classes."
