Snoring

What is Snoring?

Having to listen to the sound of someone snoring when you are trying to fall asleep can definitely drive you over the edge. Strangely enough, the snorer is usually unaware that he or she is snoring and it is the bed partner who has to contend with the snoring. Snoring is the sound that occurs when air flow is obstructed in the area where the tongue and upper throat meet the soft palate and uvula.

These structures cause the tissues to vibrate as you breathe which produces the snoring sounds. Depending on the anatomy of the mouth, the snoring sound may range from soft, feeble sounds to hoarse, harsh sounds. While snoring is not only noisy and annoying to others, disturbing healthy sleep patterns and causing sleep deprivation, it is often a symptom of other serious medical conditions.

If snoring increases and is also left untreated, it can result in obstructive sleep apnea. Obstructive sleep apnea, in turn, enhances the risk of health complications such as fatigue, lack of concentration, high blood pressure, heart disease, stroke, loss of libido, systemic and pulmonary hypertension. Children with obstructive apnea run the risk of developing attention deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD).

Living with a snorer is not easy. Snoring poses a major threat to domestic harmony by disrupting sleeping patterns which causes a lack of sleep for the bed mate. It results in poor performance at work, embarrassment, an unfulfilling sex life, separate bedrooms and even divorce.

Snoring is very common and it is estimated that 45% of all adults snore occasionally, and 25% snore habitually. It is especially common in males, but increases with age (over the age of 65 years) in both sexes. People who are overweight tend to snore more.

Diagnosing Snoring

Consulting a doctor about your snoring problem can benefit both you and your partner. A physical examination will be performed and a medical history taken. Your doctor will also be able to assess the severity of the problem by asking your partner some questions about how and when you snore. For further tests and evaluation, you may be referred to an ear, nose and throat (ENT) doctor, also called an otolaryngologist or sleep specialist. Often an overnight stay at a sleep center is required to conduct an in-depth analysis of your sleeping patterns.

Snoring may be caused by several factors:

- Low, thick soft palate
- Enlarged, swollen tonsils or adenoids
- Excessively bulky throat tissue
- Long uvula
- Poor muscle tone
- Blocked nasal passages or airways
- Deformities of the nose
- Deviated nasal septum
- Seasonal allergies
- Excess alcohol consumption
- Obesity

Help for Snoring

Treatment options to prevent snoring are generally based on a number of factors. These factors depend on your age, overall health, medical history, and the extent of the disorder, your tolerance for specific medications, procedures, or therapies, expectations for the course of the disorder and your opinion or preference. Various treatments include oral appliances, traditional surgery, laser surgery, radio frequency tissue ablation (somnoplasty) or continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP).

Oral appliances such as form-fitting dental mouthpieces obtained from your dentist can help to move the position of the tongue and soft palate so that your air passage remains open. A surgical procedure called uvulopalatopharyngoplasty (UPPP) performed to treat obstructive sleep apnea tightens flabby tissue in the throat and palate and expands air passages.

If your snoring is loud and disruptive, laser surgery is recommended. Laser surgery involves a small hand-held laser beam to shorten the soft palate and remove the uvulva. Another type of surgical procedure called radio frequency tissue ablation (somnoplasty) uses a low intensity radio frequency signal to remove part of the soft palate to reduce snoring. Continuous positive airway pressure (CPAP) involves wearing a pressurized mask that forces air over your nose while you sleep.

It is highly recommended that certain lifestyle modifications such as eating healthily, exercising regularly, and reducing alcohol intake, stopping smoking and losing weight be made in conjunction with the specific treatment.

A more natural, holistic approach can also help to reduce and treat the symptoms of snoring. Herbal and homeopathic remedies are fast becoming a popular choice of treatment for many people. The reason for this is that these herbal remedies address the root of the problem, not only the symptoms and also work at providing a long term cure.

Herbs such as Avena sativa and Scutellaria lateriflora treat nervous fatigue, stress, insomnia and acts as an excellent nerve tonic. Passiflora incarnata research is a relaxing herb which is very effective in the treatment of anxiety and stress. In addition, tissue salts containing Calcium Sulphate, Magnesium Phosphate and Calcium Phosphate can also restore healthy sleep patterns and help the body relax.

Tips to prevent snoring

- There are some helpful tips for people who suffer from mild or occasional snoring and they include:
- Eat healthy, balanced meals that consist of fresh fruit, vegetables, lean meat and fish
- Exercise regularly to develop good muscle tone, promote sleep and at the same time lose weight
- If you are overweight, losing weight will reduce snoring by increasing the space in your air passage way
- Avoid taking medication such as sleeping pills, tranquilizers and antihistamines before bedtime
- Avoid eating heavy meals and snacks at least three hours before bedtime
- Avoid alcohol at least four hours before bedtime
- Establish regular sleeping patterns
- Sleep on your side rather than your back to prevent snoring
- Tilt the head of your bed upwards four inches
- Sleep on a firm pillow as soft pillows encourage your throat muscles to relax and narrows your air passageway
- To prevent sleeping on your back, sew a tennis ball to the back of your shirt; the discomfort of sleeping on the ball will prevent you from staying on your back.
- Inhale steam before sleeping or sleep in a room with a humidifier turned on, which will reduce congestion and moisturize the throat
- Put nasal strips on before going to sleep as they will help to open up your nostrils and allow more air to come in, thus reduce snoring.
- Stop smoking as it causes inflammation and swelling of the throat
- Encourage your bed partner to wear earplugs to filter out the noise or make an arrangement whereby you will only go to sleep once he or she has fallen asleep

The Natural Approach

While Western medicine has become the norm in many cultures, it is not the only treatment option. Conventional western medicine, often called allopathic medicine, is the system of medicine taught at most medical schools and most pharmaceutical and synthetic medicines are manufactured and marketed according to the principles of allopathic medicine. Allopathic medicine is also sometimes called orthodox medicine.

Because most of us in the Western world have grown up in a society in which allopathic medicine is the prevailing norm, we forget that, only a few decades ago, homeopathic, herbal and other natural medicines were commonly available – and freely used even by conventional doctors. While there are often heated debates about which system of medicine is ‘better’ than the other, many responsible doctors (whether they are allopathic or not) recognize that both have a role to play in the treatment program.

Natural medicine has often been frowned on by conventional doctors, especially by those who did not have sufficient knowledge of these medicines. However, it is encouraging to note that some medical schools are now beginning to re-introduce it into their course work, thereby providing doctors with a wider range of treatment options from which to choose. In many countries, especially in Europe, India and China, natural and homeopathic medicines are commonly prescribed by conventional doctors and represent a significant part of the total annual drug sales.

Naturopathy is a branch of medicine (just as allopathy is a branch of medicine) which operates according to the underlying philosophy that the body has an innate capacity to heal itself. While natural medicines are often called 'alternative' or 'complimentary' medicines, they are, in fact, a unique and independent form of medicine in their own right, well able to treat a variety of conditions. Perhaps the term 'holistic' medicine is more apt, given the broad range of treatment options and approaches which are to be found within the practice of natural medicine, which encompasses many different disciplines, including herbalism, homeopathy, iridology, osteopathy, chiropractic, therapeutic massage techniques, aromatherapy, acupuncture and many, many more.

Most naturopaths will use a variety of treatment modalities in order to treat their patients in a holistic way to support health, relieve symptoms and prevent future disease. In fact, even the World Health Organization defines health as being "... more than simply the absence of illness. It is the active state of physical, emotional, mental and social well-being." This is a wonderfully clear description of holistic or natural medicine, which strives to support health (thereby relieving or preventing symptoms), rather than simply eliminating disease.

Although allopathic medicine certainly has a role to play and has made a tremendous contribution to medical science during the past century, there is a growing perception that it is not the only answer and that, in many cases, holistic medicine can accomplish just as much, if not more – without the risk of side effects, addiction and sacrifice to health so commonly associated with pharmaceutical drugs. Contrary to common perception, and provided that they are manufactured in the correct way, natural medicines can work quickly and safely to promote healing.

In many cases, they can succeed where pharmaceutical drugs have failed. Despite frequent reports that they are 'unproven' and 'untested', the opposite is true. Natural medicines have a long history of usage and there is a wealth of empirical evidence to support their effectiveness and safety. In addition, active clinical research is carried out by many academic hospitals and universities to support the extensive traditional and empirical evidence behind natural medicines.

It is also important to know that, like any medicine, herbal and homeopathic medicines must be manufactured in the correct way, following acceptable procedures and manufacturing methods to ensure maximum effectiveness and safety. Due to the recent rise in popularity of natural remedies, many companies have sprung up to take advantage of the market. Unfortunately not all of them are equipped to manufacture to the correct standards, often resulting in a flood of inferior (and sometimes even unsafe) remedies onto the market – and giving natural remedies a bad name.

Even some pharmaceutical companies have rushed to claim their market share by producing so-called 'standardized' extracts of herbs and offering these as superior to the tried and tested methods of naturopathic manufacturing. Nothing could be further from the truth. While 'standardized' extracts may offer benefit of easy consistency of dosage (and cheaper more efficient production lines), they have grave disadvantages. These include an increase in side effects as the medicines produced in this manner lose the natural protective properties of the herbs. In some cases, these side effects have proved fatal – as was seen in the liver toxicity associated with standardized extracts of kava kava, a herb previously safely used for generations without any known side effects.

Most naturopaths recommend what is called the Full Spectrum Method of extraction – which retains the benefits of ALL the active ingredients within the herb as opposed to isolating only one – thereby providing a more complete treatment as well as superior protection against side effects.

Whatever your choice, always choose wisely. Research what is best for you. If you have a chronic or life threatening condition, don't make changes without first discussing them with your doctor in order that your condition may be monitored. Well informed and supportive practitioners will support patients who want to take responsibility for their own health.

Sustaining the correct balance of tissue salts in the body is similar to the structural engineer laying good foundations when building a house. This process of tissue salt balance, called Biochemistry, was first explored by Dr. Scheussler, a prominent 19th Century German physician. Dr. Scheussler discovered that, when reduced to ashes, each human cell contained 12 minerals or biochemic tissue salts. He believed that these minerals should be present in all living cells (and in perfect balance) to support good health and well-being. This knowledge is still highly respected today and practiced by Homeopaths and Naturopaths all over the world.

Making sure that all the cells of your brain and nervous system are functioning effectively will also mean that you will enhance the bio-availability of all supplements, remedies and even nutrients in your diet – thereby maximizing all your brain health efforts! And because our tissue salts are naturally occurring in the body and manufactured to ensure safe, yet optimum potency, they are safe to use for all ages (from infancy to old age) – as well as during pregnancy!

Common Questions Asked About Holistic Health Distance Learning Courses:

What is Certification?

Most schools will offer an exam that tests the student's knowledge of the material taught in the respective course. Upon successful completion of this exam, a Certificate or Diploma will be issued by the school attesting that the student has successfully met the requirements as specified by that school. The only governmental recognition of Aromatherapy in North America is the occupational title designation granted to the BCAA under the Societies Act of British Columbia.

What is a Certified Aromatherapist or Reflexologist?

Most prospective students want to know whether taking our courses will lead to their becoming 'Certified' in that healing modality, thereby leading to the title of Certified Aromatherapist, Certified Reflexologist or Certified Color/Crystal Therapist. The answer to this really depends on what you mean by 'Certified.' We believe it can be misleading to purport that completing a course in a healing modality such as reflexology, aromatherapy or color/crystal therapy will lead to a designation of 'Certified' Therapist. These are not official title designations nor are they ones which are recognized by any country's governmental body. All that these titles mean is that this is what an Individual Instructor, School or Institution decided to put on the Diploma it awards those who successfully complete their course.

What is an accredited course in Aromatherapy or Reflexology?

The answer to this will depend on who you are asking. At the present time, British Columbia is the only government to recognize Aromatherapy as a distinct profession and has granted Occupational Title Protection to the members of the BCAA (British Columbia Alliance of Aromatherapy) with the exclusive right for its members to call themselves Registered Aromatherapists (R.A.).

At this time, neither Reflexology nor Color/Crystal Therapy have such occupational designations in any country although one prominent Reflexology school in Colorado, The Modern Institute of Reflexology, has gained occupational designation for their institution in that state. MIR has been designated by the Colorado State Division of Private Occupational Schools - Dept. of Higher Education as an approved school. Our Reflexologist who developed the reflexology modules for our courses was trained at MIR as a Certified Reflexologist, a Master Reflexologist and a Dr. of Reflexology.

In the United States, the NAHA (National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy) has put into place their Approved Standards for Aromatherapy Training. The Alternative Healing Academy's Advanced Aromatherapy course meets and exceeds these standards and we are in the application process of becoming an approved program through the NAHA.

In Canada, there are a number of different Associations including the BCAPA (British Columbia Association of Practicing Aromatherapists) and the CFA (Canadian Federation of Aromatherapists). Time will tell if one authoritative body or association becomes the standard by which to judge and govern the educational offerings of these alternative healing modalities.

It has to be noted that NO form of aromatherapy "certification" is currently recognized in the USA by anyone other than those in the trade, nor is aromatherapy (or essential oils in the aromatherapy trade) regulated by any governmental body.

Some information about the courses we offer:

1) You can receive the course in one of two ways: A cd with the modules and tests in PDF format can be shipped to you; or, The modules can be emailed to you three at a time. Each time you complete the tests for the current three modules, a new set of three modules will be emailed to you.

2) All modules are clearly explained, are in pdf format and fully illustrated.

3) The Advanced Aromatherapy Practitioner and the Advanced Reflexology Practitioner courses are designed to meet the National Association for Holistic Aromatherapy (NAHA) guidelines.

4) A tutor will be available via email to answer any questions you may have.

You will be contacted after purchase to find out how you would like your course delivered. All tests for the course can be either emailed or snail-mailed to The Alternative Healing Academy.

Upon successful completion of any full diploma or certification course (with a score of 80% or higher), you will receive a beautiful Diploma, suitable for framing.

Course Testimonials

"I'm done! Going through the final and the case studies and having such amazing experiences and opportunities to help people, I truly feel blessed and honored to have had the intense education that came with this course. I discovered in me a new ability to serve others, not only through education but through the power of healing that comes with the use of essential oils. I am continuing to train personally with Alexandria Brighton and have begun work toward opening an aromatherapy practice. Thank you so much for your patience and knowledge. Most of all thank you for this new way of living and enjoying Life."

-A. Lindquist - Advanced Aromatherapy Practitioner

"I am finding the course great. It is written very well so even people like me can understand the human body a whole lot better. I just hope that I can remember it all. I don't think I have a chance of remembering the names of everything in the muscular system or the movement system. But, I do have more of an understanding of how everything works now. I find it just amazing. Thanks Heaps."

-M. Oliver - Basic Anatomy & Physiology

"This information is great that you are teaching. I would really like to talk my oldest daughter into taking your course. It really goes into detail which is very informative."

-Debbie F. - Basic Reflexology

"Seven years ago I started to see a reflexologist for migraines and sinus problems. I was amazed that I finally found relief without medication. I decided this year to search out a course in reflexology so I could help family and friends and show them the benefits of reflexology. I researched various courses on the internet and decided to go with the basic course through the Alternative Healing Academy. I was impressed with course material and the ease of receiving the course material."

"I was given an choice of having a CD sent to me or to receiving and sending back the assignments through email. I choose email. I received 3 lessons at a time that I could read and study on my own time frame and return the lessons when I was done. Everything was sent in a very timely manner and communication was open and quick. If I needed help, I knew it was only a click away and the response time was very quick. The techniques used also came in a video mode in the email that I could replay as much as I needed to."

"I felt I learned a lot and am able to help myself and others. Being able to log 20 hours of treatment time and writing the case histories for the final exam was extremely rewarding and helpful. I would recommend this course to others interested in reflexology because the course material was very informative and complete and written in easy to understand language."

-Jean Russell - Basic Reflexology Course

"I'm so excited about (the Advanced Aromatherapy course) and I'm particularly excited about the possibility of making custom blends for people! I hadn't anticipated having that opportunity when I took the course so I'm excited to have everything done! I'm very excited to have finished. I really enjoyed this course and really appreciate all the work you've put into it! This has been a fabulous jumping off point for me and I'm so glad I took it."

"p.s. I know the boys are much slower at the Reflexology, but my son is loving the classes."
